

Expertise in forming tooling

Major Industries Ltd is a Taiwanese manufacturer and distributor of cold and hot forming tooling with a reputation for quality, service, reliability and on-time delivery.

Established since 1983, the company has worked diligently to build a prominent and well respected position within the industry through a network of sales offices in the USA, Germany, the UK, Japan, and China.

Major Industries' expertise covers the entire spectrum of forming tooling, with pins, punches, inserts, sleeves, KO pins and die assemblies all included in its extensive range – and further refinement in terms of the size, shapes and forms possible.

For instance, Major Industries can supply punches with hexagonal, elliptical or irregular cross sections for forward and backward extrusion in upsetting and broaching operations; as well as carbide dies with intricate bore profiles for a similarly wide range of forming applications. Ancillary products, such as transfer fingers, cut-off knives and specially produced machine parts and accessories complete the range.

In addition to this comprehensive capability, the company can also offer customers a greater degree of flexibility in the selection of materials and coatings to suit individual requirements. The Mil-60 family of tool steels enables Major Industries to find the best performance characteristic for the particular application, whether it is abrasion resistance, toughness crack resistance or hardness – while the appropriate PVD surface coating ensures the greatest longevity.

Heat treatment and coating processes are all performed in-house, thereby enabling much closer control over the end product. Major Industries has ISO 9001 certification, which reinforces the level of confidence experienced by its customers in the tools that are supplied from Major Industries' factory – for destinations around the globe. +
